Nobel laureate Toni Morrison dead at 88

ASSOCIATED PRESS
New York, August 6

NOBEL LAUREATE Toni Morrison, a pioneer and reigning giant of modern literature whose imaginative power in beloved, Song of Solomon and other, won the Pulitzer Prize for Beloved, she was one of the book world's most regal presences, with her expansive of graying braids; her dark, discerning eyes; and warm, theatrical voice, able to lower itself to a mysterious growl or rise to a humorous falsetto. "That handsome and perceptive lady," James Baldwin called her.

Her admirers were countless — from fellow authors, college students and working people to Barack Obama, who awarded her a Presidential Medal of Freedom; to Oprah Winfrey, who idolised Morrison and helped greatly expand her readership. Morrison shared those high opinions, repeatedly labeling one of her novels, Love, as "perfect" and rejecting the idea that artistic achievement called for quiet acceptance.

"Maya Angelou helped me without her knowing it," Morrison told The Associated Press during a 1998 interview. "When she was writing her first book, I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings, I was an editor at Random House. She was having such a good time, and she never said, 'Who me? My little book?'"

"I decided that... winning the (Nobel) prize was fabulous," Morrison added. "Nobody was going to take that and make it into something else. I felt representational. I felt African. I felt blacker than ever. I felt more of that, and put all of that together and went out and had a good time." The second of four children of a welder and a domestic worker, Morrison was born Chloe Ardelia Wofford in Lorain, Ohio, a steel town outside of Cleveland. She was encouraged by her parents to read and to think

UK MPs divided over Article 370 revocation

THE UK GOVERNMENT on Tuesday said it was monitoring the situation in Kashmir closely and called for calm as the country's parliamentarians echoed some of the wider divisions over the India's decision to revoke Article 370 and bifurcate Jammu and Kashmir.

The government of India on Monday revoked Article 370, which gave special status to Jammu and Kashmir and proposed that the state be bifurcated into two union territories, J&K, and Ladakh. "We are following developments closely and support calls for the situation to remain calm," said a Foreign and Commonwealth Office spokesperson, in reference to the issue which has led

British MPs to express both "grave concern" and "strong support". The chair of Britain's All Party Parliamentary Group on Kashmir has written to UK foreign secretary Dominic Raab to flag the human rights concerns and ask if the UK will be raising the issue at the next UN Security Council in September. —PTI
